

Myka's dream was to someday own his shop, making and selling suits that were prized throughout the world. Instead, he rejected an apprenticeship with a master who proved to be reprehensible and untouchable and lost everything. Now, he works in a derelict shop in the wrong part of town, and it's only a matter of time before he's caught selling without a license or thrown out by his odious landlord. The only bright part of his days are the occasional visits from his best client, Johan, a man who works in the palace and always brings the finest suits to have made. When he accidentally leaves behind an invitation to the royal ball, Myka takes it, determined to have one evening where he can enjoy himself and perhaps even spend time with Johan as something other than a spell weaver.
